SUBLIME PORTE WARNED THAT AMERICANS MUST NOT BE HURT.

If Three Women Missionaries Are Harmed He Will Demand and Obtain the Head of the Governor.

LONDON, Nov. 25 .- The Turks, not satisfied with killing Christians in Armenia, have begun war on the Christians who live on the Island of Crete. A dispatch to the Times from Athens says the Turks began their warfare last Wednesday by attacking the Christians of Campos, near Canea, a fortified seaport and the principal commercial town of the island. The military governor at Canea commanded the Turks. The Christians, under the lead of a committee, defended themselves. It is estimated that thirty persons were killed and Consuls estimate the loss of property as a result of the Diarbekir riots alone at $2,000,000. General alarm still continues there despite reassuring reports from the provinces and the wealthy Armenians sleep at the hotels in preference to remaining at their own houses.

A dispatch to the Standard from Constantinople says that the kernel to the present situation is found in the fact that the government is without money. The Sultan is anxious to stop disorders, but lacks funds with which to pay the troops.

Another dispatch from Constantinople says no news was received from the interior on Saturday except from Marsovan, where all was quiet, though apprehension was felt for the safety of the American missionaries located at Marsovan, and the houses were carefully protected. The Sultan yesterday sent a message to Minister Terrell to the effect that no disturbances had been reported from the Anatolia penin sula on Friday and Saturday. A report recently became current that the governor of Hadjim had threatened to burn the convent of the town and the barley fields surrounding. Minister Terrell thereupon informed the Sublime Porte that if any of the three American lady missionaries reside. at Hadjim were injured in any way he would demand and obtain the governor's head The lady missionaries were safe up to noon the government has adopted. It is officially announced that several of the notables and persons in authority at Erzerum have apologized to Shakir Pasha for the disorders provoked at that town by Armenian revolutionists. The Christian bishops at Ourfa have telegraphed the Grand Vizier that their safety is now assured. The Sultan has ordered that the corn collected in the form of tithes shall be distributed among the needy inhabitants

The foreign consuls at Erzerum, after a careful inquiry, signed a joint report confirming the accounts of to the Daily News correspondent the German government has joined with Lord Salisbury and has entered a plea in behalf of the Armenians attacked at Zeitoun, Scheme of Benefit to Canada. LONDON, Nov. 25 .- The Times this morning publishes an article on the Pacific cable and the proposed steamship service to Canada direct. It says that the suc-cess of the movement is largely due to Canada. The government does not intend to subsidize the Australian-Pacific service from Australia to Vancouver. It is also unfrom Australia to Vancouver. It is also understood that the government will only subsidize the Atlantic section of the service on condition that better time can be made over the Canadian Pacific railway than can now be made under existing conditions. In both steamship and the cable schemes the principle is recognized that in order to have British connections exclusively the line must, in the first instance, be carried westward from the center. By the acceptance of this principle Canada obtains a position she has never occupied before as the main highway of the British empire.

The man, his common-law wife and her daughter by a former marriage lived together in a tenement house in Third street. Soon after they had retired to bed the woman was awakened by the screams of her daughter. The man had attempted to assault the girl, and, meeting with resistance, he was crazed with anger. He seized a knife and thrust it into the girl's back several times. The girl sprang from the bed and ran into the kitchen, closely folowed by the murderous fiend. There the hild, cowering in dread, was seized by he father, who picked up a hatchet which ay on the floor and began to strike the girl with that instrument on the shoulders. The though horribly cut and bruised, managed to break away from her father and escaped from the house. Then the mother, who had been awakened by the girl's cries. tried to grasp the hatchet, but the man held it aloft and threatened to kill her. She snatched the hatchet from his hand and followed her daughter into the street. They ment was greatly augmented by hearing the report of four pistol shots, which followed in rapid succession the cries of the women. The police found Tinke stretched out on the floor, having fired several shots from a revolver into his neck and head. He died before an ambulance arrived.

CHANGES IN THE LAW URGED IN ORDER TO PREVENT ABUSES.

Annual Report of the Director of the Mint-Coinage, Price of Silver and Stocks of Precious Metals.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. - Postmastergeneral Wilson has made his first annual report to the President. The receipts of the Postoffice Department for the year ending June 30, 1895, were $76,171,090 and the expenditures $86,790,172. It is gratifying, says the report, that a large portion of the deficiency occurred in the first quarter of the year and that revenues are increasing with returning presperity. Mr. Wilson estimates the revenue for the year ending June 30, 1897, at $89,793,129 and the expenditures at $94,817,900, the difference to be made up by congressional appropriation. Speaking deficiencies for the past two years, may call forth comment from those who believe that the Postomice Department should be self-sustaining. But it should be remembered that the free business done by this ments of the government if paid for at regular or cost rates would more than wipe

The Postmaster-general refers to the growth of the free delivery service and says: "I believe it is good policy for Congress and for this department to foster the extension of this service by judicious appropriations and judicious administration, The vigorous and effective efforts of my immediate predecessor seem to have produced at last an honest administration of the eight-hour law, and made letter carriers' trip and official time reports actual and muthful records of service. The department, through its local representatives, has their publications by States and routes where the quantity for any one State or Territory is sufficient to justify it before has endeavored to show them that their own interests would be subserved thereby." Postmaster-general Wilson says that the civil service rules should be extended wherever practicable. He says: "The magni-tude and multiplicity of its business operations, the perfection of service which the are learning to demand and to expect of it, and the palpable truth that such ousiness operations can be carried on and such perfect service rendered only by men trained and expert; all these and many other reasons call for such stability of tenure as alone can command or beget the requisite training, skill and enthusiasm. The continuity of the department should be preserved in changes of administration, not only along the line of its subordinate and separate service, but in that larger grasp of its history, its daily work and its healththose who direct and control its chief bureaus. I concur, therefore, in the ment of one of my recent predecessors that at least three of the assistant postmaster-generals should hold their offices by a civil service or merit tenure and not by a political tenure. I refrain from offering a like opinon as to the fourth assistant postmastergeneral, because fourth class postmasters whose appointment is primarily allotted to him, are yet outside of that tenure. The question of extending civil service methods to the selection of fourth class postmasters or elsewhere, the party to the first part has naturally received my attention since [O. A. Stuart) agreeing to give the winner I have been at the head of this department, but I do not find myself able to make. as yet, any specific recommendations on this important subject in the line of the legislation which has been proposed.

"The order which you have recently oved, providing that when the postmasterconsolidate delivery office any such consolidation into the classified service at the free delivery office the postoffice department roster of employes of the office consolidated, including the postmaster, may be accepted as the beginning and foundation not only of a better postal service of the public, a better and more businesslike accounting to this department, but also a wise extension of the civil service system to postmasters. It is my purpose to proceed under the authority of this order as discreetly as I can, and, in the long run, as far as experience will justiso as to secure these commendable re-

Woodcliffe, N. J., claims to be possessed of "healing power" equal to that of the famous Schlatter, who has created such a sensation in Colorado. Manson is the leader of a strange religious sect, in the vicinity of his home, known as "The Angel Dancers," or "The Churchmen of the Living God." He is preparing to more strongly assert himself as a healer, without losing his place as the head and center of his little band of devout followers. According to his story he has been able since the beginning of his ministry to heal those who go to him through falth, but now he gives a more general invitation. Manson has quite evidently been encouraged to do this through the success and popularity of

Like me, he does not sell his God-given gifts. But he won't stay there, for the people are driving him away. I tell you, it just ain't no use in trying to traffic in these things of God, and that's what the people out there are trying to they will sell a handkerchief or anything else that Schlatter takes in his hand. Men who are standing in line to get to him will sell their places to any one willing to pay a price for it. That is the work of the devil, and nothing else. Schlatter has God with him mightily, and won't stand that. That is the reason he disappeared It's the Lord who took him away to rebuke the money changers who defile the temple. "I know Schlatter's great power. I have healed since the beginning of my ministry, and know what it is. Faith in the Lord and belief in me are only necessary. I have helped people wonderfully through God. I helped cure a woman who had not walked for twelve years. Many have I healed, and some right here in this house I say pray, pray. Prayer will make you well. Sin and had health come from wrong living. I say, do as I have done; cast out sin. Get on your knees and pray to God. I can do nothing. I am only an instru-

LED BY A CHILD.

Sinners Moved by the Words of Little Colored Girl.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.-A little colored African M. E. Church, on Bleecker street to-night. The pastor, Rev. Josiah Caldwell had just spoken to the people in B words: "A little child shall lead them, for out of the mouths of babes and su hast thou ordained strength." The ch was Cleretta Nora Avery, whose press and exhortation have stirred up nam towns in the South. Like Joan of Arc, she said she felt called in a mysterious way to undertake her work. Two years ago she was a happy little girl in South Carolina, the daughter of a local preacher, went to school and had advanced as far as the Third Reader. Aside from her school books she read nothing but the Bible. One day she told her father that something had told her that she must do more than sing and play with dolls; she must preach the gospel to all men. In her father's church she first talked. Then her fame spread and soon it reached the ears of $2,500 deposited by each of the principals in the contest is a forfelt to Dan A. Stuart to be paid him should either of the principals leading men of the church. They recognized her power and influence. The ministers who conducted the Charleston Industrial Institute, which is doing great good for the colored people in the South, enlisted her services, and the child was brought to New York a few days ago to preach and draw attention to the religious and educational work of the insti-

The incoming throng was stopped at the door and the densely packed and ence listened intently. Then a faint child-ish voice could be occasionally heard, ask-ing God's blessing on the people and the church. Suddenly she arose from her knees. Many voices said a fervent "amen," and the child sat down in a stiff, higg-backed chair, her feet not couching the
